.. you think it is time to move beyond the obvious assumption of what culture is and how it is shaped,

.. you feel there are new territories to look for to enrich the contribution of culture in regenerating the social and economical situation,

.. you want to understand the complexity of culture and share it with other thinkers and practitioners from different backgrounds,

.. you need to empower your understanding of how a network can be nurtured, enriched, activated, transformed for ideas to spread,

.. you believe it is time to start exploring the future of culture and participation.
